Over 5,000 homeschool students have attended Economic Thinking workshops on debate topics.

Economic principles and economic freedom reforms are central to the chosen Stoa resolution calling for reforming U.S. foreign aid. Current foreign aid programs include green energy, infectious disease, and population control programs as well as military and economic aid. But much foreign aid is ineffective, intrusive, and even corrupt. Remittances and local enterprises provide alternatives to improve the lives of poor people and communities.
